Phenology

Bud burst: 6 days after Chasselas.
Grape maturity: period II, 3 and 1/2 weeks after Chasselas.

Suitability for cultivation and agronomic production

This vine variety is very vigorous and fairly fertile and productive. It can be managed short pruned. Etraire de la Dui N would appear fairly sensitive to winter frosts. It grows well on deep clay-limestone terroirs and on hillsides. When ripe, a tendency to shatter can sometimes be noted.

Sensitivity to diseases and pests

This vine variety is not very sensitive to powdery mildew.

Technological potential

Grape clusters and berries are moderate to large in size. Etraire de la Dui N can produce good ageing, colorful, full-bodied and tannic wines (sometimes astringent).

Clonal selection in France

The only approved Etraire de la Dui N clone carries the number 1070. A conservatory of a dozen clones was set up in 1999 in vineyards in the Savoie region.
