Phenology

Bud burst: 5 days before Chasselas.

Grape maturity: early-season, 1 week and a half after Chasselas.

Suitability for cultivation and agronomic production

Feteasca neagra is a vigorous variety, fairly well adapted to drought and must be trained and pruned long. Feteasca neagra is moreover resistant to winter frosts but sensitive to spring frosts due to its early budburst.

Susceptibility to diseases and pests

Feteasca neagra is not very susceptible to powdery mildew. It is however more sensitive to downy mildew and grey rot.

Technological potentiality

Feteasca neagra's bunches are small and the berries are medium in size. This variety has high sugar and acidity content. It produces well-balanced, colored and pleasant wines.

Clonal selection in France

The only certified Feteasca neagra clone carries the number 1168.
